The WBPF HUNGARY under the leadership of President Tamas Vldar is playing a very important role in organising this European Continental event for 2023.

In the meantime, Bodybuilding and Physique Sports has never been more popular. This is mainly due to the dedicated, devoted and hardworking people that constitute the Executive of the European Bodybuilding and Physique Sports Federation led by President Axel Bauer.

I would also like to thank Ms. Andrea Gergely and the Organizing Committee for doing a superlative job in bringing our sport to the highest level in Europe.

I would strongly encourage all European countries to participate in making the 12th European Bodybuilding and Physique Sports Championships a great success.

Dear delegates and athletes,

It is both a great honor and pleasure to announce that the 12th WBPF European Bodybuilding and Physique Sports Championships will be organized and conducted this year by the Hungarian Bodybuilding and Physique Sports Federation (HBPF). After the WBPF Hungary has successfully organized the 2nd WBPF European Championships in 2011 in Budaörs, the 7th WBPF European Championships in 2016 in Budapest and the 10th European Championships in 2019 in Budapest it is now the 4th time that Hungary is taking the task to host this competition. This year this important event will be celebrated in the beautiful city of Budapest, the capital of Hungary located in the heart of Europe.

HBPF is organizing the European Championships 2023 under the capable leadership of HBPF President Tamas Vldar who has recently been appointed as WBPF Executive Council Member (WBPF Director of Coaching) and Andrea Gergely, HBPF Secretary General, who has been working successfully for HBPF and WBPF for 13 years and has immense experience in organizing continental and world sport events. Tamas Vldar is a well-known Bodybuilder himself and has organized many successful events in the past and he and his local organizing team of officials from Hungary will ensure that this competition will become a great success. Andrea Gergely with her vast experience in the good-hearted management of high caliber events and the organizing team of HBPF will make this event one of the best, ever.

Among the WBPF HBPF is the strongest member in Physique Sports in Europe and one of the most successful

AIRPORT

Budapest Liszt Ferenc International Airport (IATA: BUD), formerly known as Budapest Ferihegy International Airport and still commonly called just Ferihegy, is the international airport serving the Hungarian capital city of Budapest, and by far the largest of the country's four commercial airports. The airport is located 16 kilometres (9.9 mi) southeast of the center of Budapest (bordering Pest county) and was renamed in 2011 in honour of the most famous Hungarian composer Franz Liszt (Liszt Ferenc, in Hungarian) on the occasion of the 200th anniversary of his birth. The official taxi company of Budapest Ferenc Liszt International Airport is "Főtaxi".

Budapest is the capital of Hungary and the largest in East-Central Europe. Cited as one of the most beautiful cities in Europe, its extensive World Heritage Site includes the banks of the Danube, the Buda Castle Quarter, Heroes' Square and the Millennium Underground Railway, the second oldest in the world. Other highlights include a total of 80 geothermal springs, the world's largest thermal water cave system, and third largest Parliament building.

Most popular attractions: House of Parliament: The governing powers of Hungary are housed in the third largest parliament building in the world. A competition was held to find a suitable design for the building and it was won by Imre Steindl who completed the building in 1904. His design was inspired by the English House of Parliament. The building incorporates Gothic Revival elements and has turrets and towers but also has Renaissance and Baroque elements like the massive central dome. The Hungarian parliament has a Lower and Upper House; the Lower House is in the northern wing and the Upper House in the southern wing. They are joined by the Dome Hall. The northern wing also houses the Prime Minister's offices and the southern wing houses the offices of the President of the Hungarian Republic.

St Stephens Basilica: One of Budapest's greatest landmarks is this beautiful church which stands on the Pest side of the city. The church construction was completed in 1906 having taken 50 years to build. The church is named after King Stephan (975-1038), the first king of Hungary. The church holds many exquisite frescoes, mosaics, statues and beautiful altar pieces. It is possible to take a tour of the church, visit the church for free and visit the Treasury and tower for a fee. From the top of the tower, there are spectacular views across the city. In the Szent Jobb Kápolna Chapel on the left of the church is the mummified hand of St. Stephen called the Holy Right.

Buda Castle District: The UNESCO World Heritage Committee has listed the view of the Danube embankments and the Buda Castle District- which is one of the most beautiful and romantic parts of the city of Budapest- as a World Heritage site on the 11th of December, 1987. The former Royal Palace and its supply buildings are an organic but separate part of the Castle District. Some of today's most important cultural institutions, such as the Budapest History Museum (Wing E, southern end of the building), as well as the Hungarian National Gallery (Wings A-B-C-D) and the Hungarian National Library, named after the founder Ferenc Széchenyi (Wing F) have moved to the Royal Palace. The formal residence of the Prime Minister, the Alexander Palace, is the President's Residence and home today.

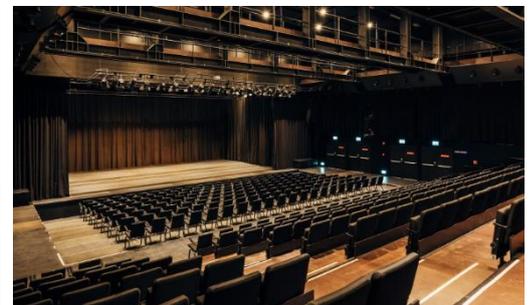

The most visited site is Trinity Square, dominated by one of Budapest's most characteristic building, the Mathias Church, which is over 700 years old. The church itself is almost of the same age as the Royal Palace, and gave home to many coronation ceremonies. Many kings and emperors left their mark on the church, even before the Turkish occupation, when the church was converted into a mosque and its walls whitewashed. Inside lie in their sarcophaguses King Béla the 3rd and his Queen; many visitors also visit the church for its vast ecclesiastical collection. Today's version of the church was finalized at the turn of the 19th century, when several smaller buildings were annexed to it and it was renovated in the Neo-Gothic style. It gives home to a great many concerts, due to its excellent acoustic properties. The Gothic tower of the Mathias Church, with the Fishermen's Bastion in the background, is one of the most frequently photographed tourist sites in Hungary.

The Heroes' square is one of the most visited sights of the Hungarian capital is situated in front of the City Park, at the end of the Andrassy Avenue, one of the most important streets of Budapest, a World Heritage site. The millennial monument was built in 1896 to commemorate the 1000th anniversary of the arrival of Hungarians in the Carpathian Basin. The niches are decorated by the statues of kings, governors and famous characters of the Hungarian history. In the middle of Heroes' square stands a 36 metres high corinthian column with the statue of Archangel Gabriel on the top, the symbol of the Roman Catholic religion. At the pedestal the equestrian statues commemorate Árpád and the seven chieftains of the Hungarian tribes, who settled their people in the present territory of Hungary. His descendants formed the Hungarian royal dynasty. At the two sides the representative buildings of the Museum of Fine Arts and the Art Gallery both worth a visit.
